NEW YORK STATE OFFICE OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL SETTLEMENT
NOTICE AND CLAIM FORM

Our records show that you cancelled a New York Times (“NYT”) home delivery subscription with a New York billing address between January 19, 2018, and August 9, 2023, and were directly billed by NYT (not a third party). As such, you may qualify for restitution as part of a NYT settlement with the New York Office of the Attorney General.

How to Make a Claim: Each Eligible Subscriber is entitled to a one-time payment of $14 in restitution, which you may claim by submitting a claim form. Fill out and return this claim form by mail or email to claim your payment by check. If you wish to receive your payment electronically, please visit www.NewYorkAGSettlement.com and file a claim online using the claim number and PIN provided at the top of this Notice. You can receive your payment via PayPal, Venmo, ACH, virtual Mastercard or check. You have until March 3, 2026 to file a claim form and select your preferred payment method.

Eligible Subscriber Definition: All individuals who were NYT home delivery subscribers with a New York billing zip code, who were directly billed by NYT (not a third party), and who cancelled their NYT home delivery subscription between January 19, 2018 and August 9, 2023 (collectively, the “Eligible Subscribers” or individually, each an “Eligible Subscriber”).

Payment: If you are entitled to a payment, it will be made electronically using the information you provide online, or by hardcopy check to the address you provide below. Payments will be made on April 3, 2026.

By signing below, I declare that I am an Eligible Subscriber and I claim my payment.
